

A RACE RIOT WAY DOWN IN GEORGIA

Five Policemen and Five Negroes Killed Near Atlanta.

TOWN IN UPROAR

Negroes Burned From Houses and Shot Down on the Streets.

ACT LIKE GHOULS

Atlanta, Ga., May 17.—In an effort to arrest Will Richardson, a negro in a cabin just outside the city limits this morning four policemen were killed and three persons fatally injured one of them a street car conductor.

Mob Fires Cabin
It is believed that the negro was burned to death in the cabin which was fired by the mob. Two other negroes were found in the cabin in which Richardson is believed to have perished.

Fired on Police
A policeman went to Richardson's cabin early this morning to arrest him for beating another policeman. When they approached Richardson fired wounding one. The cabin was then fired by the policemen. Richardson crawled out, escaping to an outhouse. Before entering he fired four times three officers dropping dead and a fourth was killed a few minutes later.

Joined By Armed Force
Hundreds of armed men joined the policemen who had been called to the rescue and poured a perfect hail of bullets into house. They finally succeeded in firing it but Richardson made another successful dash for a nearby cabin pursued by hundreds of bullets but was not hit. From his new refuge he kept up his fire on the mob wounding two more. Fireballs were thrown and it was soon ablaze. The house was charged and searched the trunk of two negroes' bodies being found.

Act Like Madmen
The crowd acted like madmen over the relics of the bodies tearing them from the debris with long poles and men fought for ghastly souvenirs. Two negroes were shot on the streets a few minutes later they having been with Richardson when the trouble started.

WEATHER AND WAGES FACTORS IN BUSINESS

Excessive Moisture Hurts Crops and Miners' Strike Interferes With General Trade.

New York, May 17.—"Weather and wages continue the only seriously disturbing factors in the business situation. Excessive moisture and low temperature made the crop outlook more uncertain, and much depends on a continuance of prosperity in the agricultural sections. On the other hand record-breaking distribution of pay in the Pittsburgh region accelerated retail trade, while resumption of woolen and other mills added largely to the active force. Transporting lines continue to make splendid exhibits, railway earnings for the first week of May exceeding those of a year ago by 6.2 per cent and surpassing the same week's earnings in 1900 by 19.9 per cent."

The foregoing summary is made of the trade situation by R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review. Continuing the review says:

"As was indicated by weekly reports, pig iron production attained a new record for the month of April at 1,503,326 tons, and the weekly capacity of furnaces in blast on May 1, according to the Iron Age, was 252,064 tons, far surpassing all previous high-water marks. Such an enormous production would suggest accumulation of supplies, but consumption easily keeps pace, furnace stocks showing a decrease of about 10,000 tons during April to much the lowest point in recent years. With about twenty more furnaces in course of construction or contemplated, an annual output of 20,000,000 tons is no longer considered remote, while the current year may exceed 18,000,000 tons if no serious labor controversy or other calamity interferes.

"While it is generally agreed that there has been much improvement in the winter wheat states since the opening of the month, prices became somewhat firmer upon the publication of the official report of condition on May 1. Exports for ten months of the crop year assure the heaviest outgo ever recorded, even if the last two months make poor exhibits. For the past week exports were 3,493,764 bushels, flour included, against 4,023,246 a year ago. Corn advanced on lighter receipts and reports of slow progress in planting.

"Failures for the week numbered 227 in the United States, against 177 last year, and 17 in Canada, against 19 a year ago."

Drs. Ira M. Holsapple, Chas. T. Pierce, L. L. Leslie and R. J. Hart, attended the three days' meet of the Southern Wisconsin Dental association which closed at Madison on yesterday afternoon.

MORE FACTS AS TO THE GREAT REFORMER LA FOLLETTE'S ACTS

His Veto of Frost Mortgage Bill Food For The Minds of Voters—The Question Is of Particular Interest Just Now.

The following facts concerning the Frost Mortgage bill, will be read with interest. It is evidence of the fact that the people's representatives made an honest effort to equalize the burden and were not responsible for failure:

On February 8, 1901, Assemblyman Frost, who during the whole legislative session was relied on by Governor LaFollette as a firm supporter and follower, and who worked and voted for the Primary Election Bill, introduced Assembly Bill No. 284 A., which was designed to divide the tax on mortgaged property between the mortgagor and the mortgagee. The provisions and objects of this bill are collected in Section 2 thereof, which is as follows:

"Mortgagors and mortgagees referred to in the two preceding sections shall, for the purpose of taxation, be deemed joint owners, and in the event of there being more than one mortgagee holding joint ownership in such real estate, each mortgagee shall be assessed in like manner in proportion as his equity in such real estate shall appear to the assessor. The total amount of such proportionate assessments shall in no case exceed the total valuation of the property as determined by the assessor. The assessor or collector of the taxes shall, on the application of any of them, give to such mortgagee or mortgagor, a tax bill showing the whole assessed valuation or tax on the mortgaged estate, and the amount included in the valuation thereof, as the interests of each mortgagee and mortgagor respectively.

Thus it was proposed to compel the money-lender to pay a tax on his mortgage to its full amount and to compel the borrower to pay only on the actual value of his interest in the land. Thus, if a man owns a farm worth $5,000 and has to borrow $2,000 on the same, he is taxed only for $3,000 which represents his actual interest, while the money-lender pays on the other $2,000. This bill was passed by the Assembly on April 26, 1901. (See page 1034 of the Assembly Journal), and by the Senate on May 3. (See Senate Journal, page 908). On May 13, Governor LaFollette returned his bill with his veto. (See Assembly Journal, page 1309).

The lack of attention on the part of the Gov. to this all-important measure was due directly to his complete absorption in attempting to force the passage of the Primary Election Bill, his veto message to the Hagemeister bill being dated May 10, only three days before the Frost Bill was vetoed and returned by him.

Once more Senator John M. Whitehead, of Janesville, is on record, he having been a prominent member of the Senate committee which reported this same Frost Mortgage Taxation Bill back for passage. (See Senate Journal, page 853).

PLOT DISCOVERED TO DOWN COOPER

La Follette's Lieutenants Make a Futile Effort in Racine To Turn a Trick.

Racine, Wis., May 17.—Special—A well turned scheme of the Half-Breeds in Racine county to capture the First Assembly district convention and not only pass resolutions in favor of the La Follette crowd and the Governor himself, but also to elect anti-Cooper delegates to the congressional convention to be held in Janesville, May 23, has come to light.

The ward caucuses are to be held next Tuesday and LaFollette slates have been made in every ward. It has also developed that lieutenants of the governor have made a careful canvass among the republicans of the district to find one that would come out and oppose the return of the present congressman to Washington. It was hoped that a split could be made in the republican ranks and thereby the LaFollette crowd could gain control. The move was not successful as no opposition to Mr. Cooper could be found.

Senator Bissell, of Milwaukee has been here all the week, leaving today, and is assured that Mr. Cooper will receive no opposition in Racine county.

When caught at the game the LaFollette people raised the cry that there would be no opposition to Mr. Cooper, and what was the use fighting for the delegation? That there will be no resolutions for Mr. LaFollette is certain. Mr. Bissell returned to Milwaukee this evening. It is expected that an attempt will be made by the LaFollette people to carry the fight into the senatorial convention.

President Mitchell refuses to discuss the probability or the possibility of a coal strike. No time or place has been set for the national convention, but it is likely to be held in Indianapolis. The situation this morning remains quiet.

Hazleton, Pa., May 17.—A tie-up of every industry in the country is planned to bring victory to the anthracite coal miners in their present strike. If carried out as now predicted business of all kinds will be paralyzed and every person will be inconvenienced. It is the desire of the strikers that a special national convention of the United Mine Workers of America be called as soon as practicable for the purpose of endeavoring to have all the bituminous mine workers, both organized and unorganized, involved in the anthracite miners' struggle. This announcement was officially made by President John Mitchell in a statement giving the result of the deliberations of the delegates in convention. The statement is as follows:

Ceremony Witnessed by 300,000 People—60,000 Soldiers Keep Order.

NO CROWN WAS USED

Madrid, May 17.—King Alfonso, the thirteenth, was made the reigning sovereign of his monarchy this afternoon in the Madrid Chamber of Deputies. A thousand people including all the members of the Cortez nobles and grandees of Spain and representatives of the foreign governments were present at the ceremony which occupied only ten minutes. The oath to observe the Spanish constitution was administered to the young king and the coronation was over.

Use No Crown
No crown was placed on the king's head and all signs of authority were absent. After taking the oath the king proceeded to the cathedral on San Francisco street where he received the benediction. He then returned to the palace where he received the congratulations of the envoys. Three hundred thousand persons were present at the ceremony. Thousands had remained in the streets all night, dancing and reveling, and when daylight came they took up their places in the line of march.

The women of the better class wear the graceful black mantilla and are soberly attired.

Value in Paintings.
(From the Cleveland Leader.)
Wealth is only measured by comparison. A person who is used to riches places his estimate of what constitutes a "fortune" much higher than does the one who has been poor or in moderate circumstances.

A woman employed at housecleaning by a family in the East End the other day, told her employer that she had been working for some time at the country home of John D. Rockefeller, with a dozen other women. She was impressed by the interior decorations of the house and especially by the pictures.

"Why," she said, "Mr. Rockefeller

Sleeplessness

Is akin to insanity. Many a woman realizes this as she lies awake hour by hour, peopling the darkness with phantoms, starting at the creaking of the bed or the rustle of the bedclothes.

Such symptoms in general point to disease of the delicate womanly organs, and a constant drain of the vital and nervous forces. This condition cannot be overcome by sleeping powders. The diseased condition must be cured before the consequences of disease are removed.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures the womanly diseases which cause nervousness and sleeplessness. It is the best of tonics and invigorants, nourishing the nerves, encouraging the appetite and inducing refreshing sleep. Irregularity, weakening drains, inflammation, ulceration and female weakness are perfectly cured by "Favorite Prescription."

"My wife, after eight years," writes Albert H. Pulte, Esq., of Altamont, Grimsby, Conn. "She had uterine disease and was treated by two physicians and got no relief. At last I read about Dr. Pierce's medicine and decided to try his 'Favorite Prescription.' I sent to the drug store and got one bottle and the first dose gave ease and sleep. She had not slept any for three nights. Being sure that it would cure her I sent for five more bottles and when she had taken the sixth bottle she was sound and well."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets should be used with "Favorite Prescription" whenever a laxative is required.

has a lot of pictures. Some of them have gold frames six inches wide. I guess," she continued, making a careful calculation, "that he must have at least a hundred dollars worth of paintings."

A VERY CLEVER PRODUCTION

Elks Benefit a Decided Success From A Stagic Standpoint

At the Myers Grand last evening Miss Rose Coghlan and a capable supporting company presented the strong emotional play, "Forget Me Not," the production being of unusual interest to the people of Janesville because it was given for the benefit of the Elks fund. Doubtless for this reason, than because of the strength of the attraction, the theater was filled with a representative audience. Decorations of royal purple bunting, potted palms, lilacs and mounted elks' heads, the angles of which were brilliant with incandescent lights, made the interior of the play house very attractive.

Very Frenchy Play
"Forget Me Not" is one of those intensely dramatic French plays which give exceptionally fine opportunities for strong emotional acting but which, after all, leave rather a bad taste in one's mouth. The entire interest of the play centers around two characters, the unscrupulous adventures, Stephanie de Morilvart, and Sir Horace Welby, who takes upon himself the task of outwitting her in order to protect his sweetheart.

Character Well Portrayed
Miss Rose Coghlan played the part of the adventures in a bold, dashing manner and although her acting lacked finesse, her vigorous manner pleased her audience and she was frequently applauded. The most clever work of the performance was done by Emmett C. King as her cool and seemingly indifferent antagonist. The other parts in the play were rather thankless although Nell McEwen, as Alice Verney, Alma Weston as Mrs. Foley, and David Elmer as Prince Malcotte, all won favor.

THE CHAPERONS' COMING

This New York and Philadelphia Success at The Opera House May 29. "The Chaperons," which has been described as a diverting frolic of music and mirth, presented Frank L. Perley's brilliant organization of singing comedians including a great cast of celebrities and a dazzling array of beautiful chorus girls, will be the attraction at the Myers Grand in Thursday, May 29.

This new musical success has been styled by both Philadelphia and Boston critics the only rival of "Florodora" outside of New York this season. Many of its score of musical numbers have become popular song hits, especially the rousing Bohemian number, "We're All Good Fellows," rendered by a triple male quartette, and "My Sambo" in which Miss Tanguy introduces her beautiful dance.

George W. Lederer has given the stage performance a dash and go that has caused "The Chaperons" to be called a veritable whirlwind of fun. Among the many favorites in the cast are Harry Connor, Walter Jones, Jos. C. Miron, Edd Redway, Eva Tanguy, Trixie Friganza, Mae Stebbins, Nellie Pollis, May Doley and sixty others.

KATHERINE WILLARD IN

The Power Behind the Throne Here On May 27

"The Power Behind the Throne" a highly successful romantic play by Theodore Kremer, founded on Schiller's classic, "Love and Intrigue," will be given at the Myers Grand on Tuesday, May 27. Katherine Willard portraying the character of "Aria," a daughter of a court musician, and her opportunities are markedly strong.

The scene is laid in an Austrian province in the latter part of the eighteenth century and tells of the intrigues of the rival factions in the petty court to obtain ascendancy over the reigning Prince. "Aria" is loved by a young Baron, and a scheming Duchess, who is infatuated with him, plots to secure his hand. The production is under the management of Edward C. White, who gives promise that the costumes will be handsome and historically correct, and that the scenic settings will be magnificent and a prominent feature. The supporting company is large numerically, and is declared to be of an even excellence.

The principal members of the cast are Lillian Norris, Rita O'Neal, Camille Porter, Anna Call, Rosa Galsay, Wright M. Lorimer, Samuel Lewis, Wm. H. Penderrast, Wm. Frederic, Carter Weaver, Kenneth Davenport, Edward R. Lewis and a number of others.

"A Runaway Wife"

Among the plays of American authorship, which has found favor among the amusement going public, few have excelled in point of criticism and financial returns that which is credited to the delightful comedy, "A Runaway Wife" which will be presented at the opera house next Monday night for the first time in the Irving French Co. This piece received its first production in New York City, where it had a remarkable run, during which period it received the strongest endorsement of the metropolitan press. It can be truthfully said without receiving a single adverse criticism. The management of the Irving French Co. has secured the right to this piece, and they are now duplicating its metropolitan success in splendid style. Mr. Irving French, the famous comedian possesses exactly the requisites necessary to achieve success in "A Runaway Wife" and from the advice we learn that the balance of the cast has been equally well selected. It will be seen in this city for the first time at the popular 10, 20 and 30 cent scale of prices. Ladies free, opening night only. If accompanied by an escort with one paid thirty cent ticket. Seats now on sale.

Y. M. C. A. ANNUAL BUSINESS MEET

Last Evening's Session Shows the Association To Be Self Supporting and Prosperous—The Officers.

At the annual meeting of the Y. M. C. A. held in the parlors of the association building last evening the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President—F. F. Lewis.
Vice President—Stanley B. Smith.
Secretary of Board—Archibald Crawford.

Treasurer—W. G. Palmer.
Directors for three years—H. J. Cunningham and Dr. F. T. Richards.

The meeting was quite largely attended by interested business men and was presided over by Dr. E. E. Loomis, president of the association. The opening prayer was offered by the Rev. James Churn, pastor of the First M. E. church.

Annual Reports
The annual reports of the officers were of a most satisfactory character showing that the work of the Y. M. C. A. is enjoying a steady growth and healthy prosperity. From a financial standpoint the association is practically self-supporting, as the natural annual income is now approximately $1,000, the expenses being a little under this sum.

Unusual Expenses Last Year
There have been unusual expenses during the past year, about $1,000 having been spent in permanent improvements and the new bowling alleys. The approximate liabilities of the association are $1,600 offset by about $1,200 available assets.

A Good Investment
The dormitories have proved a splendid investment and afford a certain source of revenue. With one exception all the rooms in the annex are now occupied, there being thirty-seven men rooming at the building.

Has Big Membership
The reports presented last evening show a total membership of 347, this number including 278 seniors, 29 intermediates and 40 juniors. Twenty-two of the senior members pay a fee of $15 annually which entitles them to the free use of bowling alleys in addition to the other privileges of membership. During the past year, 8,760 baths have been taken at the building, an average of 730 per month, this being eloquent testimony as to the value of the bath rooms.

Among the officers whose reports were heard with interest were President E. E. Loomis, Treas. W. G. Palmer, General Secretary J. C. Kline and Dr. F. T. Richards, chairman of the junior department.

Elected By Nomination
There was a new departure in the election of officers this year, the nominating committee, consisting of H. F. Bliss, J. A. Craig and J. H. Jones recommending the names of three candidates for each office. This committee also recommended a resolution providing that hereafter the board of directors shall consist of eighteen members instead of twelve and that the association officers shall be elected by this board instead of by the general membership as heretofore.

Resolutions Passed
Resolutions were passed thanking Dr. E. E. Loomis for the faithful and efficient service which he has rendered the association during the past eight years of his presidency. Dr. Loomis has served the association as president ever since its organization, devoting much time, thought and effective work to its interests. To his efforts and to his wise administration in the infancy of the association, when the burden was heaviest, is largely due the success of the Y. M. C. A. movement in this city. In response to the resolutions of appreciation passed last evening Dr. Loomis spoke briefly, saying that while in the future he would not be actively engaged in the association work, he would always be actively interested in it.

A BAD WINDOW BLAZE

Fire in The Show Goods Of The Golden Eagle—In Dangerous Place

What might have been a bad blaze if it had been allowed to get a start or had occurred late in the night, broke out in the window of the Golden Eagle Clothing store on the bridge about 7:30 last evening. The large show window used to display goods had been decorated with electric lights and the fire caught from a piece of imperfect wiring. The window was full of shirts and in a minute was all ablaze.

Discovered in Time
The parties who first discovered the fire ran to the West Side engine house where an alarm was turned in for box 7 on the automatic machine. The department turned out in quick time as the alarm was from a bad district for fires and they did not care to lose any time.

Confined to Window
When the department arrived the fire was burning quite lively, but was confined to the window which had a partition between it and the main store. The extinguishers on the patrol wagon were brought into play and the blaze was soon put out.

The main damage was confined to a broken pane of glass and the furnishings of the front window, although the entire stock of the store will be somewhat injured by the smoke. The insurance on the stock was carried by Carter & Morse.

Why Work Was Wearisome
(From the New York World.)
Senator Stewart, who has been in Washington for many years, has an old negro retainer who comes around twice a week for some money. He made his regular Wednesday call today. The senator gave him a dollar and said:

"Jim, I'm getting tired of this sort of business. You are an able-bodied man. Why don't you go to work instead of living on my charity?"

"Well," snorted Senator Stewart, "I haven't seen you work in the winter any, either."
"In de wintah, boss?" In great astonishment. "Why, boss, you must be crazy! It's fah too col' to wuk in de wintah."

PRINCESS MARGARET.

Daughter of Duke of Connaught is the Most Attractive Member of British Royalty.

It is no exaggeration to say that Princess Margaret of Connaught, King Edward's pretty niece, who "came out" at a ball in Dublin recently, is an extremely important figure on the international chessboard. She may take a king.

The lively daughter of the duke of Connaught is generally regarded in continental diplomatic circles as the most eligible of royal young women, while those of her own country recognize in Princess Margaret Great Britain's best hope for a fresh European alliance. Already her name has been mentioned in connection with those of the prospective successors to the two proudest thrones in Europe, and it is hardly a matter of doubt that, sooner or later, some especially exalted match will be made for her.

The fact that among her relatives Princess Margaret is known as "Daisy" goes far to prove that there is little stateliness or undue self-consciousness about the girl whose future promises to be so brilliant. Her temperament is just what the temperament of a girl of 20 ought to be—lively and not too serious. She is tall and graceful and has the knack of making herself liked wherever she goes. She rides horseback; she is a devotee of the camera and she is never so happy as when there is a dance in prospect. Probably much of the tact and graciousness for which she is famous Princess Margaret acquired from her grandmother, Queen Victoria, whose almost constant companion she was for a long time. Her parents, the duke and duchess of Connaught, some years ago made a prolonged visit to India, leaving Princess Margaret and her younger sister in Queen Victoria's charge. Margaret was an especial favorite of her royal grandmother, who often commented on the resemblance to herself, which can be noticed in

PRINCESS MARGARET OF CONNAUGHT.

Princess Margaret's profile and the contour of her face.

It has been remarked more than once that the sprightliness that is so characteristic of both Princess Margaret and her younger sister, Princess Patricia, must have come to them from their amiable father, rather than from the duchess, who never has fully overcome the shyness that once was almost a malady with her. She was the daughter of Prince Charles Frederick of Prussia, and when first she settled in England her timidity made life a burden to her. At the first dinner parties at which she was obliged to preside as hostess she was so nervous that she used never to dare to lift a glass of wine to her lips for fear of spilling it, and even now she appears at great functions as seldom as possible, and infinitely prefers a small dinner with two or three close friends. Her married life, however, has been fairly happy. She is proud of the great popularity which her husband, the duke, enjoys, and he relies more than a little on her tact and judgment.

For the first time, the Connaughts are about to have a home of their own in London. Hitherto, this section of the royal family has lived for the most part at the duke's country place, Bagshot park, in Surrey, and when in town have had apartments in Buckingham palace. Now, however, Clarence house, the square saffron-colored mansion hard by old St. James' palace, is being entirely refitted for them. Until recently it has been the home of the king's widowed sister-in-law, the duchess of Saxe-Coburg. The Connaughts are to move in immediately, and it is expected that the duke will entertain lavishly during the coronation season.

Cure for Chapped Hands.

The mild of all work plunging her hands in hot soapsuds and with them half dried, perhaps, hanging clothes in the wintry air will often suffer painfully from hand-chapping during the cold weather. It is the thoughtful mistress who will see that a bowl of Indian meal is kept in a convenient place near the kitchen sink, and the girl encouraged to dip her hands, while still moist from water, frequently into the velvety grains. Afterwards, dry the hands thoroughly.

GRAND DUCHESS OLGA.

A Sweet Little Girl May Perchance One Day Be Empress of All the Russias.

The Sallie law does not prevail in Russia. The czar's feeble younger brother was carried off by consumption two years ago, and though women only come to the Russian throne when all nearer male heirs are lacking, there is an excellent chance of succession for the six-year-old eldest daughter of the present ruler.

The picture taken of this little girl bending over her youngest sister has proved throughout Russia one of the most popular of the royal photographs. It is admired because it shows that in spite of the fact that all the czar's children are girls, they are wonderfully pretty girls and that the charm and character of the eldest is clearly written in her countenance. Six years ago, when she was born loyal Russia was deeply disappointed. The czar, however, gallantly assured his people that he was delighted with his little girl and in spite of the fact that three more tiny women have come to bless his nursery he has greeted them affectionately and given to the first the most unstinted devotion. It is whispered in Russia that when the news of the sex of the first baby was given the emperor he smilingly said she would some day rule Russia. To the infinite satisfaction of her nurses and parents she proved not only to possess a wonderful physique, but all the beauty of her mother and the sound sense of her Danish grandmother.

GRAND DUCHESS OLGA.
(Oldest Daughter of the Czar and Czarina of Russia.)

In the royal Russian household there seemed to be from the hour of her birth a belief that she would never have a brother and on her training the most extraordinary amount of care and attention has been lavished. This little girl with a wonderful future has hardly known a day's illness. She talked and walked sooner than is the rule even with robust and forward children and she possesses a wisdom and gravity far beyond her years. Where she has appeared in public her beauty and grace have enchanted the people among whom she is frequently referred to as "the little empress," and though her sisters are pretty, sweet creatures, Grand Duchess Olga easily eclipses them.

Though but six the grand duchess' tact and intuition are unerring, as is proven by a drive she made recently with her baby sister, Grand Duchess Anastasia, through the streets of St. Petersburg. The two children were in a big closed carriage with their nurses, and were following their parents to the railway station. There was a moment's halt along the route and when the duchess' lovely face was seen at the carriage window a cheer rose from the people behind the guards. With right royal grace the child calmly took her baby sister from the nurse's arms and held her up, saying at the top of her voice: "Isn't she sweet?" The cheers rang out again and again, the duchess nodded gayly and held the baby for everybody to see until the carriage rolled on.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Elderly Women in White.
There is considerable criticism in French circles over the fact that at a recent wedding not only the bride, but the mother of the bride, was attired in a white gown. The gown in question was, to be sure, a heavy white guipure, trimmed with bands of ermine, a costume certainly sufficiently rich and elaborate to suit a woman only a little over 40. It is, however, a noticeable fact that a large number of women past their youth are wearing white for the daytime and finding it becoming. As a couturiere approached on the subject said: "A woman is never too old to wear white, but she must be too ugly. A pretty woman may wear white until she is 50, but an ugly woman should never wear it."

Burnishing Iron Work.
Plain or ornamental varnished iron work may be made to look like new by rubbing with petroleum applied with a soft duster.

Division of Labor.
Helene—How long did you stay in Paris on your trip to France?
Emma—Oh, a week altogether.
Helene—But, surely, you could not take in everything in such a short time!
Emma—But we did, all the same. You see, there were three of us. Mamma took in the picture galleries. I studied the shops and things, and papa examined the local color in the cafes.
—N. Y. Times.

Her Mild Sarcasm.
"Yes," said young Mrs. Torkins, "the way we crowd and push on bargain days is something trying."
"It is, indeed," answered her husband.

"But it isn't as bad as the crowding and pushing in the betting ring at the race track, Charley dear. And when we have succeeded in giving our money to the man we have something to show for it."—Washington Star.

It Meant Nothing.
"Nonsense!" said Mr. Crook. "I don't see why I should take any notice of the epithet he applied to me. It meant nothing."
"What!" ejaculated his friend Catton. "Why, the man called you a blithering idiot."

"Exactly," answered Mr. Crook, "and there is no such word in the English language as blithering."—Tit-Bits.

Worse Than She Had Suspected.
Hyde Park has a Mrs. Malaprop, who, when told the other day that an old gentleman to whom she had just been introduced was an epicure, said:

"Well, he looks like he had one foot in the grave, but I'd 'a' never took him for a poem on a tombstone."—Chicago Record-Herald.

The Kind of Work Done By PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND

Mrs. Mary Hickey, of South Sudas, N. Y. Had Rheumatism So Bad She Could Not Walk

This great work has been accomplished only by merit and genuine cures. Rheumatism, neuralgia, and nervous disorders (take flight in springtime when Paine's Celery Compound is used for a time. Why delay the work of health building when such a life giver is within your reach? Test its efficacy this very day.

Mrs. Hickey, happy and grateful for the astonishing results derived from Paine's Celery Compound, new nerve fibre, nerve force, fresh energy, and vitality, write us:

"For nearly thirty years, I have been an invalid, caused by that terrible disease, rheumatism. For six years I could not walk without the help of friends. All my joints were stiff, and I had to be wheeled about the house in an invalid's chair. Physicians' medicines, baths, etc., etc., were all in vain, but Paine's Celery Compound practically cured me, and I am now able to walk around and do my household work."

WEATHER FORECAST:
Thunderstorms tonight: Sunday warmer.

APRIL RAIN.
It isn't raining rain to me,
It's raining daffodils;
In every dimpled drop I see
Wild flowers on the hills.
The clouds of gray engulf the day
And overwhelm the town,
It isn't raining rain to me,
It's raining roses down.

It isn't raining rain to me,
But floods of clover bloom,
Where any buccaneering bee
May find a bed and room,
A health unto the happy,
A fig for him who frets,
It isn't raining rain to me,
It's raining violets.

—Robert Loveman, in Harper's Magazine.
The little poem of Mr. Loveman, sparkling with choice sentiment. The bright side of life is always the choice side, and there is so much more sun shine than cloud; that the world would be happier and infinitely better, if everybody was engaged in looking for the bright spots.

Life is not only the product of individual effort, so far as success is concerned, but the happiness that contributes so largely to every day experience, is in the keeping of the individual.

The storm that sweeps down through the valley, washing the face of nature, is just as necessary as the sun light, that falls from the clear blue sky, and the deep toned thunder that cause the earth to vibrate, loosens up the winter bound soil, and calls into life the dormant forces of nature.

The wind, that gathers velocity until it travels at a forty mile pace, clears up the atmosphere, and makes it fragrant and wholesome. While the storm rages, and the wind whirls the dust through the air, it is difficult to find any thing very inspiring about the scene, unless the eye of faith looks out, beyond the storm, and catches glimpses of wild flowers on the hills.

The voice of Nature is usually a cherry voice. Only now and then the pent up forces give evidence of the mighty power that governs and controls. The promise of seed time and harvest is so universal that fulfillment is never questioned, and failure seldom results.

Disturbances like the Martinique explosion are of such rare occurrence that they fail to leave a lasting impression, and they are so far removed from the great mass of humanity, that but a faint conception of their reality is possible.

The great majority of mankind study the same landscape year after year for a life time. The hills and fields grow monotonous with familiarity. The seasons come and go with such uniform regularity that the weather is forecast with almost absolute certainty. Nature makes no abrupt changes in the programme and the sense of proprietorship possesses the mind and frequently finds expression.

The weather is always a safe topic to discuss, and the most ordinary mind never hesitates to tackle it. The farmer boy who sits on the edge of a chair in his first effort at courtship, says to the girl across the room, "If it don't rain pretty soon, we'll have a spell of dry weather," and the girl blushing reply, "Yes but I hope it won't rain tomorrow and spoil the picnic." And then they forget the weather and discuss the picnic, while the old man says to his neighbor out at the gate.

"That bank of clouds over in the west looks like rain, but all signs fall in a dry time," to which the neighbor replies, "You bet they do the last moon was a dry moon, and there won't be any rain for a month." A few days later when the ground is soaked with moisture, and work is suspended, the same class of critics fear a deluge, and say, "If the rain don't let up soon the harvest will be ruined."

The man in town keeps his weather eye out, and talks as familiarly about the state of the atmosphere as though he had it manufactured to order, while his wife pulls down the blinds, and shuts up the house, as she chants a song of complaint about the dust or dampness.

The old man with the goose bone, who has watched the sun as it appeared from the same horizon for three quarters of a century, and noted its characteristics, as it disappeared behind the familiar hills, is always an oracle on the weather. He forecasts the winter by the thickness of the coat and fassel, as the corn field turns to yellow in the autumn frost. The activity of the muskrat as he provides a winter home in the marsh, paints a picture of prolonged cold weather.

He watches the sun set and predicts the season with so much confidence, that the neighbors often wonder how one small head can be so richly endowed. When nature upsets some of his predictions, he is satisfied that somebody has made a mistake, for which he is not responsible.

It is always safe to kick about the weather, because the assault is on one side. Nature endures all sorts of criticism and abuse with out complaint, and so far as known, without any change of programme.

It is so much easier to discuss the storm cloud than the daffodils, and so much more natural to find the dust in the highway than the violet that blushes in the corner, that much of life is devoted to complaint, where appreciation would bring happiness and content.

The poet had discovered the great secret of every day living, and when he expressed it in the little couplets, so full of choice sentiment, he gave to the world a motto that will prove a talisman to every life that will adopt it.

The journey from the cradle to the casket, is an eventful journey. The horizon is frequently shrouded in mist, and low hanging clouds often shut out the sunlight. Occasionally an explosion suggests the presence of forces that threaten to engulf and destroy, but the years of slotted in the average life are tempered with the same generous hand that governs and controls the forces of nature.

While it is true that "into every life some rain must fall," it is also true that without the rain and storm, life, in its highest sense, would be incomplete.

The sapling bows before the onslaught of the blast, to spring back with renewed vigor, because the little tendrils down below the surface have taken hold with a firmer grip.

The environments of life may not always be ideal. There may be much to cause unrest and discontent, but the pathway is never made smoother by worry. If it rains today it is a good time to get ready for the sunshine of tomorrow.

Aside from personal comfort and happiness, which so absorbs energy, it is well to remember that "no man liveth to himself." The local shower blesses the community, bestowing favors with impartial hand. A life that is touched with the spirit of humanity imparts an influence that is helpful and lives to a purpose.

The late ex-governor Jesse Stone was so imbued with this spirit that he caused to be carved in letters that would endure, a motto to remind him of the sacred obligation. The sentiment expressed and so fully exemplified in the life of Mr. Stone, is worth repeating many times, and if it were generally adopted the world would be brighter and better. "I expect to pass through this world but once: Any good, therefore, that I can do, or any kindness that I can show to any fellow human being, let me do it now: let me not defer it, nor neglect it, for I shall not pass this way again."

The roses and violets are not difficult to discover, by such a life and the example followed, will dispel the clouds in many a rainy day.

The one survivor of St. Pierre, although a murderer, confined in an underground cell, is the hero of the hour. He is being interviewed by enterprising newspaper correspondents, and what he was not able to see, is readily supplied. The marvelous stories all pass current, because there is no authority to contradict. It requires but little imagination to paint any kind of a picture of the awful tragedy.

The scientific commission, called to St. Pierre to pass judgment on the volcano, decided that there was no danger, but they never lived to tell on what theory they based their calculations. The mechanism of volcanoes is intricate and beyond human control or understanding. The best way to treat them is to keep away from them.

Senator McGillivray is well organized up in his district. He has McGillivray and LaFollette clubs scattered all through the timber, but his neighbors are making arrangements for him to go back and sit down. They tell him that twelve years of public life ought to satisfy him, and they don't see any hope of his ever being governor.

The Governor succeeded in gaining the illwill of the druggists throughout the state, by the removal of Mr. Helmstreet, and now he is out after Pharmacy, and now he is out after the dentist. As an all-around harmonizer, he beats the record.

If the army of coal miners will kindly keep up their strike through the summer, it will have a tendency to steady the coal market and prevent nervous prostration which might result from a sudden decline in prices.

Congressman Cannon is posing as an obstructionist to American liberality. The old gentleman may be troubled by an explosion in his vicinity.

Jacob Rills recently said in a lecture, that "a little boy is a steam engine with steam always up, but he has a safety valve." He forgot to say where the valve is located, and a good many mothers have tried all sorts of experiments to find out.

Nixon, the new Tammany leader, has retired to private life, after discovering that he was only a figure-head.

A Boston man has been fined $50 for opening his wife's letters. Another case of the dangers of letter writing.

PRESS COMMENT

Elkhorn Independent: Senator McGillivray of Black River Falls, after serving eight years in the senate, is striving for re-election. Those who know him best, hope he will not succeed. It is said his own country, Jackson, is against him, but he still fights on.

Whitewater Gazette: It does seem a shame that the American people are so at the mercy of the coal trust. The prices are outrageous and the chances are that they will go higher. We do not wonder that men are made socialists when we see such trusts getting control of the necessities which should be within the reach of all.

Oshkosh Northwestern: A man in Paris has won a wager of $20 by playing a piano for twenty-seven consecutive hours with less than an hour and a half for rest and refreshments. The proper place for him now is in a lunatic asylum.

The Oshkosh Northwestern says that Gov. LaFollette has shown that he is a man above party prejudice, and that he holds no ill will against his fellows, because of the proclamation which he issued on the death of Lieutenant Governor Stone. Had the governor's worst political enemy died, he could have done no less as the chief executive of the state of Wisconsin. LaFollette has sense enough to know the people who elected him to at least represent them in sorrow, trouble and death.—Fond du Lac Reporter.

Deerfield News: It looks as though that the machine so carefully constructed by Governor La Follette has lost its usefulness. The strong cog situated in the Third District refused to work and the endorsement that the half-breed worked so hard and so long to get, failed to materialize. The machine is broken and La Follette is beaten.

Oshkosh Northwestern: The beef trust is responsible for a more extended dietary reform in this country than could possibly have been accomplished in any other manner. A man in Kansas City has been found who bids defiance to the meat barons by dining on four tablets of malted milk and a banana or an orange and he is so pleased with results that he is urging all his friends to follow his example.

MRS. HELENA BLAV.

Young Milwaukee Society Woman.

TEN thousand cured women have written to tell how Wine of Cardui bestows the blessing of health on every woman who takes it, rich and poor alike. Mrs. Helena Blau, No. 123 Seventh Street, Milwaukee, Wis., is one of the young women whom Wine of Cardui has rescued from a life of suffering. She writes:

The woman who has suffered from female weakness should do anything within reason to secure health. Wine of Cardui is the medicine that appeals to reasonable women—women who hold operations and cutting in horror—women who know that Nature is the best physician. Wine of Cardui gives women back their health by giving Nature a chance to build up the wasted and diseased tissue. Wine of Cardui regulates the menstrual flow and Nature, when relieved of the drains or of the poisons in the system, makes the functional organs strong and healthy again.

"Wine of Cardui is certainly 'worn out' women's best friend and I am pleased to give my experience with it. A few months ago I caught a severe cold, having been out in inclement weather, which settled all over me, particularly in the abdomen. I was in almost constant pain. I consulted a physician and took his medicine for a month and without any relief. I then decided I would try your medicine and it was a lucky day for me when I did so. I noticed a change in a few days and felt encouraged to continue taking Wine of Cardui, and my patience was rewarded, for in two weeks my pains had left me and I felt like a new woman."

Any woman who is silently suffering untold pains because she is too sensitive to undergo a physician's examination and treatment can find no excuse for not securing relief when Wine of Cardui is offered to her. There is no publicity to deter her. She can take Wine of Cardui in the privacy of her home, with as much assurance of a final cure as though a dozen doctors recommended it. Many physicians do recommend Wine of Cardui to their patients.

WOMAN'S CLUB VISITS BELOIT

Spend Day Among the College Buildings—Lunch at Mrs. Emerson's.

Members of the Women's History Club and its auxiliary society of young women enjoyed a day of rare pleasure at Beloit yesterday. The guests of Prof. Theodore L. Wright, of Beloit college, and of Mrs. Helen B. Emerson, widow of the late Prof. Joseph Emerson, for many years so vitally identified with the college. For the past year the ladies of the two history classes have been studying the history, literature and art of ancient Greece under the leadership of Prof. Wright, who has come to this city on alternate Saturdays and given instructive lectures on the subject before the class. Prof. Wright is one of the ablest Greek scholars and authorities in the country and his conduct of the work of the Woman's History class has been valuable to them as students.

Mrs. Emerson, who is curate of the art collections at the college, on hearing of the intended visit of the Janesville ladies joined Prof. Wright in the extension of hospitality and proffered the use of her home to the visitors during the noon luncheon hour. This invitation was gladly accepted by the ladies providing their own picnic dinner.

Fifty Members Go.
The party numbering about fifty club members and personal friends of Mrs. Emerson, left this city at 9:30 o'clock yesterday morning and arrived home on the 6 o'clock train last evening. On their arrival at Beloit they were met at the station and welcomed by Mrs. Emerson and taken directly to the college art hall where the morning was spent in the study of art. The party was divided in half and while Prof. Wright was entertaining one section with a delightful lecture on the exhibition of Greek casts on the lower floor of the hall, Miss Allen, daughter of Prof. Benjamin D. Allen, was explaining the more modern statuary and painting in the upstairs rooms. Both sections enjoyed both of the lectures which were very interesting. Prof. Wright's was especially valuable as the Greek casts furnished a theme which practically covered the work which has been done by the class this year.

Lunch at Mrs. Emerson's.
The visit to the art hall finished the guests were taken to Mrs. Emerson's home, 810 College avenue, where luncheon was served at long tables, tastefully decorated with tulips and other garden flowers. Mrs. Emerson had invited some of the college professors to meet the ladies and before the luncheon she called on a few of the gentlemen present for a brief word of greeting. Those who spoke were Prof. Allen, instructor in music; Prof. Porter, who is eighty years of age, and Mr. Merrill, who is eighty-six years of age and has just completed his fifty-sixth year of connection with Beloit college.

Reception Held.
After the luncheon there was an informal reception, the guests finding great pleasure in Mrs. Emerson's quaint old-fashioned home with its old-style decorations and its wealth of valuable curios gathered from all parts of the world. The closing pleasure of the afternoon was a visit to the college buildings, each one of which special guides took charge of the party.

Senator Whitehead Present.
Among the gentlemen who accepted the invitation of Mrs. Emerson to enjoy the occasion were Senator J. M. Whitehead and W. S. Jeffris of this city.

Will Study Rome.
The Woman's History Class has derived much benefit from this year's study under Prof. Wright that the members consider themselves fortunate in being able to secure him for the next year's work which will be on the history, literature and art of Rome. Prof. Wright will spend the summer in Italy and will have the work of the class in mind during his visit there thus being able to bring much personal knowledge and fresh inspiration to the coming year's work.

LAW AFTER OPTICIANS

Many Are Fitting Glasses Who Should Not Be in the Business

During the past year in many of the states laws have been enacted upon that have made it real interesting for alleged opticians who proved to be mere novices at the business. These alleged opticians have brought upon their patients more misery than good. In most cases it was shown that they knew little or nothing about fitting glasses. The word optician and eye specialist have two distinct meanings. An eye specialist is one who is well versed in the manufacture of lenses and who has obtained this knowledge by months of hard work at the bench. W. F. Hayes, the eye specialist with F. C. Cook & Co. is not only an expert in the manufacture of lenses but he well understands every branch of the work, having devoted months of time in lens factories. Mr. Hayes during the past two years has worked up an excellent practice in all sections of the state of Wisconsin.

CITIZENS OPPOSE WORK ON LOOP

Injunctions Served on Hayes Brothers, But They Fail to Stop Work—Not a Street Railway.

A movement is on foot among the property owners on North Franklin, High Wall and West Bull streets to prevent if possible the construction of a loop about their property by the Beloit, Delavan Lake and Janesville railroad.

During the last two days some fifteen property owners through their attorneys, Wm. Rieger, Jr., and S. D. Tallman, have served notice of protest against the proposed work on the Hayes Bros. Co., who are doing the grading. So far the contractors have paid no attention to the protest and have continued the work of grading.

Papers Served.
The papers were served on Michael Hayes and the foreman in charge of the work. The Hayes Bros. consider that the rights given the railroad by the franchise are not being overstepped and will continue the work until stopped by order of the court.

The property owners claim that the protests were served to preserve their equitable rights in the street and no doubt they will ask for an injunction to restrain the company from laying rails.

Form of Protest is.
The form of protest is as follows: To the Beloit, Delavan Lake and Janesville railway company—You are hereby notified that I as owner in fee simple of situated in the city of Janesville, protest against the occupation by you, for street railway or other purposes, any of those portions of West Bull and North High street in said city of Janesville upon which said above described property abut; and I do hereby demand that you desist forthwith from the work of constructing a railway of any kind upon such portions of said streets.

Not a Street Railway.
The attorneys in the case seem to rely upon the ground that this is not a street railway in the sense of that word, but a competitor with the steam railroad and therefore not governed by the statutes applying to street railways. They claim that because it runs between different cities, it does not come under the head of street railways within the meaning of the statute, as do roads that are for local travel only. It will be upon these grounds that an injunction will be asked for when the time arrives.

TWO LIVELY RUNAWAYS
Mr. Langworth's Horse and Team Belong to Gypsies Make Havoc

Elmer Langworth, of the town of Fulton had a lively runaway yesterday afternoon while on his way home. He was driving one horse and leading another and also had two persons going to the county house in the buggy with him.

When just north of the gashouse the St. Paul switch engine going down to their ravel pit, blew its whistle and scared Mr. Langworth's horse so badly that it started on a run. It went down the steep bank alongside the gashouse overturning the buggy and dumping out the men that were riding with Mr. Langworth. The horse that he was leading broke loose during the fracas but was afterwards caught.

The other horse ran for nearly a mile before he was able to stop it.

Another Runaway
A pair of horses belonging to a band of gypsies, who spent the morning on South Bull street near the Park hotel, ran away down the street and straddled a large tree in front of H. S. Ames' residence where they were caught and held before they could get a fresh start. The only damage done was that a strap or two about the harness was broken.

Decorated in Pink
The long table, at which the entire company was seated, extended the length of the room and was garlanded with pink ribbons and strewn with wild crab apple blossoms over which a softened light was shed from pink shaded candelabra. A profusion of the fragrant crabapple blossoms beautified every nook and corner of the room making a peculiarly pretty decoration.

Small Talk Followed
Following the spread there was an impromptu postprandial program. Miss Elizabeth McKey presiding, as toastmistress. The responses were all of a humorous nature and were very enjoyable, those who participated being Prof. William Norris, Misses Edith Loomis, Belle MacLean and Harriet Holt, Edwin Saunders and Prof. F. W. Van Horn.

Social Entertainment
The balance of the evening was devoted to music and charades, sides being chosen for the latter amusement which furnished excellent entertainment in the gymnasium for over an hour before the good-nights were said.

RUSK LYCEUM WIN THE DEBATE

Although Defeated, the Laueran Society Does Itself Much Honor—Supper and Social Later.

Last evening the Laueran Society and the Rusk Lyceum met in joint debate in the science recitation room of the high school. The question under discussion was, "Resolved that the ultimate solution of the Cuban question will be the annexation of the island." The young ladies of the Laueran society had the affirmative and the Rusk lyceum the negative. After an interesting and exciting debate the question was decided in favor of the negative.

A Large Attendance
About seventy members of the two debating societies listened to their representatives battle with wit, argument and eloquence. The Laueran speakers being Misses Elisabeth McKey, Ruth Fifield and Grace Winterroth. The Rusk lyceum debaters were Stowe Lovejoy, Harry Doran and Frank Holt. Miss Emma Paulson, Mrs. Frances Whittaker and F. W. VanHorn officiated as judges.

Not a Walk Away
While the young gentlemen won the debate they did not have a walk away. The young ladies were equally as well informed and as logical and forceful as their opponents. The debaters on both sides spoke well to the point and won credit for work well done.

United States Senators' Letters
The young men, in preparation for their debate with the Appleton High school on the same subject secured personal letters from Senators Spooner and Money and these letters were presented during the debate of last evening. Other high authorities both American and Spanish, were quoted freely and the Platt amendment was discussed thoroughly.

A Clever Poem
While the judges were arriving at their decision at the close of the debate, Matthew Roherty read a clever original poem in which Miss Harriet Holt, critic of the Laueran society, and Prof. William Norris, critic of the Rusk lyceum, figured as holding a spirited discussion over the relative merits of the two debating societies. The poem was especially amusing to the audience and its author was liberally applauded.

Supper Served
After the debate an adjournment was taken to the art room where a two course spread was served. The menu was appetizing and was enjoyed more than many a more formal banquet. The room was very prettily decorated in pink, the Laueran color.

Decorated in Pink
The long table, at which the entire company was seated, extended the length of the room and was garlanded with pink ribbons and strewn with wild crab apple blossoms over which a softened light was shed from pink shaded candelabra. MONT PELEE MAY RESUME ERUPTION

Glowing Clouds and Flashes of Light Issue from the Volcano.

PEOPLE ARE PANIC-STRICKEN

Fifty Persons Arrested at St. Pierre for Pillaging Have Been Condemned to Prison for Terms of Five Years Each.

Fort de France, May 17.—There is every reason to fear that another violent eruption from Mont Pelee is imminent.

Thursday night from 10 o'clock until midnight great flashes of glaring light were emitted from the great crater.

Thousands of people here filled the streets, gazing at the awe-inspiring illumination with every evidence of apprehension.

Friday morning thick, glowing red clouds, interspersed with flashes of light issued from the volcano. Showers of cinders, lasting for twenty minutes, accompanied this activity.

The people in the districts of Lorrain, Marigot, St. Marie and La Trinite are panic-stricken.

The authorities are now waking up to the fact that looting is being carried on to an extensive scale in St. Pierre. M. Vallon, who has been appointed by cable general attorney for the firm of Van Romondt, says that on his arrival there he found that thieves had broken open the firm's safe, and that banknotes were lying on the ground all around. He had to call his assistants to him for protection from the looters, who were closing in on him to rob him.

Imprisonment for Ghouls.

Eventually about forty of the thieves were arrested and brought here. A force of gendarmes went to meet the steamer bringing them and escorted them to jail. Fifty persons who were arrested for pillaging at St. Pierre have been condemned to five years' imprisonment.

Reports have reached here that a fight has been waged between the troops and pillagers in the ruins of St. Pierre. The nonpayment of salaries in the northern part of the island has caused a revolt and the situation is serious.

United States Consul Aymo is at St. Pierre searching for the archives of the United States consulate and to find, if possible, the bodies of the United States consul, Mr. Prentiss, Mrs. Prentiss and their two daughters, Marie and Christine. If he succeeds the remains will be taken to Fort de France for burial with military honors. He will also seek for the bodies of the British consul, Mr. Japp, and his wife and children. The Americans will further endeavor to recover the British consular archives. If the remains of the Japp family are found they will receive the same burial as the bodies of the Prentiss family.

It is stated that owing to a badly worded cable dispatch or a misinterpretation by the French government a special ship has been dispatched from France with fifty doctors and five hundred nurses, and all necessary accessories. The government of Martinique has sent a hurried cable message to the Azores Islands, where the vessel will call for coal, saying that the doctors and nurses are not wanted.

Politics Overshadows Disaster.

Singular to relate, local political topics and local appointments appear to interest the population to the exclusion of the catastrophe and all other matters.

One of the men in the hospital Labrano of the Teresa Lovico died. The members of crew of the steamer Roralma are progressing favorably, especially Engineers Evans and Morris. A deck passenger of the Roralma named Beckles is sinking. He continually moans for an orange, but not one is obtainable here. His face is covered with burned and decomposed flesh, the odor from which is like that from the dead bodies at St. Pierre.

Three seamen, belonging to the Italian bark Teresa Lovico, which was lost at St. Pierre, are among the survivors. They state that when the wave of fire from Mont Pelee struck the bark and threw it over on its beam ends and tore away the deckhouse with themselves inside of it the house rolled over and over in the sea, nearly drowning the three men inside. They managed to clamber on top of the house, which by this time had ceased rolling, and from this point witnessed the destruction of the city. Their description of the holocaust is similar to those already cabled. After the lapse of considerable time the men swam ashore. They were scarcely touched by the fire.

Set Fire to Houses.

The officials are now burning the bodies of men and cattle by covering them with wood and straw and saturating them with kerosene. On the south of St. Pierre, near Cabat, many houses and huts were only partially destroyed. They have now been set on fire by the gendarmes in order to consume the corpses inside.

Notwithstanding everything that occurred banana trees are showing green leaves, and a small quantity of grass is bursting through the ashes. Men are engaged, in all directions, in burning bodies. What remained of outhouses and laborers' cottages was all aflame. This accounted for the smell of burning flesh. The heavy smoke and the extreme heat of the sun and the flames combined were trying.

A large party which has been engaged all the morning in burning bodies on the sea front and in the streets near by embarked on a dredger and steamed quickly away to Fort de France owing to two small eruptions from the crater.

Under the fallen trunk of a large tree were seen many bodies lying in a line. These victims had probably been crushed while trying to find shelter. The streets now contain only charred and burning remains. The streets that are not covered with debris are impassable, owing to manholes leaking from adjacent distilleries.

Several Fort de France merchants were engaged in breaking open safes in their ruined properties. Inside the fireproof safe of Caminade & Bros. the composition was melted into a black liquid. Considerable coin has been found, but banknotes and papers were burned up.

The account given by Mr. Benson of the steamer Roralma that two waves of fire rushed from the mountain, and that the first was the more powerful and swept direct to sea, enveloping the Grappler, and that the second rolled over the town and shipping, is corroborated by the extreme ruin of that portion of the city in the vicinity of the battery and beyond.

FORTY HURT IN STOCK YARDS FIRE

Two Thousand Spectators Are Caught on Falling Runway.

LOSS IS OVER HALF A MILLION

Brave Patrol Wagon Driver Sticks to His Seat and Controls the Horses, Despite the Fact That Both His Legs Are Broken.

Chicago, May 17.—While fire was destroying half of the $1,000,000 lard refinery belonging to Armour & Co. in the Union Stock Yards a runaway crowded with two tiers of spectators broke under the strain.

From the mass of crushed timbers and struggling men and boys more than thirty injured persons were taken out. A boy, two women and one man were dangerously hurt. In addition to these a fireman sustained injuries while making the run to the fire which are expected to result in his death. Several other firemen were hurt, the list approximating forty.

There was a second's warning as the roof of the runway sank under the weight of the crowd. Then the sound of splintering wood was mixed with the cries of the injured as the roof fell in on the floor of the "run," which, in turn, collapsed on the heads of the people standing on the ground, throwing 2,000 persons in a confused mass.

This happened while the fire was at its height. The fire itself was the most alarming and disastrous one the Stock Yards has had for many days, and only for the prompt work of employes and firemen in draining oil from the tanks in the burning plant, and but for a fire-wall which prevented the blaze from spreading, it is believed the principal buildings at the yards would have been doomed.

The lard refinery was in the center of the yards, at Forty-third street and Center avenue. Two thousand men and women were employed in it, and 700—a night shift—were at work when the fire drove them out.

J. Ogden Armour placed the value of the building, which was constructed last year, at $1,000,000 and the damage at $500,000.

While the burning oil was presenting a brilliant spectacle, and before the police lines had become strong enough to handle the crowd, the spectators took possession of the "hog run" of the Boyd-Lunham Company. The "run" stood just to the east and south of the building and furnished the best opportunity for viewing the fiery spectacle.

"As many men and boys as could crowd on the 'run' had climbed either to the roof or to the run itself. That the police made no attempt to prevent this is a matter which will be investigated by Chief O'Neill. They did not, and the structure was subjected to a weight it never was intended to carry."

Two thousand persons were standing on the "run" when the crash came. The roof gave way first. Then, with cracking timbers and shouting people the load came down on the floor of the runway—itsself crowded. The whole mass was precipitated to the ground, a fall of thirty feet in all, and on the heads of the persons below.

In the midst of the confusion of the injured crying for help, of men and boys trying to crawl from the wreckage and of the uninjured recovering from their stupor, an example of peculiar devotion to duty was afforded by a policeman.

When the runaway came down it caught the patrol wagon of the Stock Yards Station and cut it in two. This helped to save the persons on the run, as it held the timbers for a second. The timbers broke both legs of Israel Morris, the driver. In spite of the pain, Morris stuck to his seat and held his plunging horses.

TRIES TO REVIVE SCHLEY TROUBLE

Admiral Finds Champion in Congressman Williams of Mississippi.

PRaise FROM SOUTHERN MAN

After Giving Definition of Courage, He Declares That Naval Hero Embodies Every Essential Element to Stamp Him a Brave Man.

Washington, May 17.—Ghosts succeeded in partially resurrecting the Schley controversy. The incident caused some excitement and revived the debate on the naval appropriation bill, which has been dull and stupid. Champions of Admiral Schley to enter the list were few. Mr. Williams of Mississippi enjoying the distinction of being the only defender to make an effort worthy of note. His Democratic colleagues by frequent applause endorsed his attitude, but otherwise they were silent. They permitted him to get the calcium light. None attempted to share the center of the stage with him. From their reticence it would appear that they are not eager to rush to the defense of the admiral, but are content to let the controversy drop. They were offered ample opportunity to reopen the question. A few months ago they would have stumbled over each other to embrace it. While they warmed enough to punctuate Mr. Williams' speech by applause, they displayed no other signs of interest.

Uncle Joe Starts Trouble.

"Uncle Joe" Cannon, who is living up to his well-earned reputation of objector and professional critic, started the ball rolling by questioning the value of the naval station at Newport and condemning naval officers generally for a readiness for shore assignments. His argument was taken up by Mr. Hepburn of Iowa, who directed attention to the fact that forty-eight officers were assigned to the naval academy at Annapolis to graduate a class of fifty-nine cadets. Mr. Hepburn insisted that it was bad practice in the navy to consider an officer entitled to a soft berth ashore for three years out of every six. He referred to his service in the army, and declared that the secretary of war could with propriety allow officers to remain home three years after doing three years' duty at a military post.

After finding that the Republicans were in a critical mood, Mr. Williams of Mississippi took heart and made bold to ask what had become of the Schley resolution he had made several years ago. He opened to his sarcastic vein. He announced that he felt called upon to defend "landlubbers." Then he became poetical and read verses referring to Admiral Crownsfield, who until recently was chief of the bureau of navigation, and as such earned the enmity of many Schley partisans. He then held up in contrast "the hero of Santiago," whom he eulogized in ringing terms. He commended his courage and skill and stoutly defended him. He analyzed courage and found it in all forms in Admiral Schley, who, he said, demonstrated one kind when he stood exposed near the conning tower on the Brooklyn and directed the battle of Santiago. A greater, nobler courage was demonstrated, however, in his arctic relief expedition. In this way and in some detail Mr. Williams reviewed the character and record of Admiral Schley, declaring that in him he found nothing to condemn or criticize.

Williams Seeks Information.

Then Mr. Williams sought information concerning the status of a forgotten resolution. It was introduced months ago and called for the appointment of a special committee to investigate the charges made by Maclyn in the preface of his history to the effect that a certain high naval officer had read and approved the proofs of the volume in which Schley was denounced as a coward and charged with violating orders.

TIRED SALESWOMEN.

Employers Should be More Considerate. Mrs. Pinkham Asks Tired Women to Write Her for Advice.

In the vast retail establishments of large cities, many women are employed as saleswomen.

Men formerly held the positions that women now hold, and while women's organism is less strong than men's, they are expected to do the same work. Their duties compel them to be on their feet from morning to night, and many of them, in a short time, contract those distressing complaints called "female diseases."

Then occur irregularities, suppressed or painful menstruation, weakness, indigestion, leucorrhea, general debility, and nervous prostration.

They are beset with such symptoms as dizziness, faintness, lassitude, excitability, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, "all-gone" and "want-to-be-left-alone" feelings, blues, and hopelessness.

In such cases there is one tried and true remedy. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles. The following letters prove this. They also prove the value of Mrs. Pinkham's advice.

"I Can Work Every Day in the Week Now."

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I write this letter for you to publish for the benefit of poor, suffering women. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me a great deal of good. I have taken three bottles and feel like a new woman. When I began the use of your medicine I was hardly able to be up; could not do half a day's work. I ached from head to foot, was almost crazy, had those heaving-down pains, and stomach was out of order. Now all of these troubles have left me and I can work every day in the week and not feel tired."—MRS. JENNIE FREEMAN, 409 Pennsylvania Ave., Lima, Ohio.

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—I have read with interest your advice to others so much that I thought I would write to you for I have been suffering for a long time. This I did some time ago."

"Now I can hardly find words to thank you for your wonderful Vegetable Compound and advice."

"I was in a terrible state, every part of my body ached, was very nervous, had hysterical spells. I think I would have become insane had it not been for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Your medicine has cured me and I cannot express my thanks."—Miss HARRIE DEGRAAT, Succasunna, N.J. (March 8, 1901.)

No other medicine in the world has received such widespread and unqualified endorsement.

No other person can give such helping advice to women who are sick as can Mrs. Pinkham, for none have had such a great experience—her address is Lynn, Mass., and her advice free—if you are sick write her—you are foolish if you don't.

$5000 REWARD Owing to the fact that some skeptical people have from time to time questioned the genuineness of the testimonials letters we are constantly publishing we have deposited with the National City Bank, of Lynn, Mass., $5,000, which will be paid to any person who will show that the above testimonials are not genuine, or were published before obtaining the writer's special permission.—Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Company, Lynn, Mass.

GAZETTE BOYS CELEBRATE

Fifty Newsboys Enjoy An Evening of Fun at the Y. M. C. A.

Fifty active, fun-loving boys, officially known as the Gazette carrier force, enjoyed a very merry evening at the Y. M. C. A. building last night, as the guest of G. W. Walker, who is in charge of the Gazette circulation department.

These boys know how to have a jolly good time and they had it last night, whether listening to the brief, interesting talk by J. C. Kline, the excellent music by the male quartette which sang several catchy selections or eating the delicious ice cream and cake which always touches the right spot with a company of boys.

Did Not Forget The Gazette

Even in the height of last evening's pleasure the boys did not forget their interest in the Gazette, which is unusually keen at present because they are all working for the premium trip to Chicago. The Gazette company will give this trip to every carrier boy who secures fifty new subscribers before the first of August and as the manager of the Gazette looked in on last evening's pleasure he made up his mind that it would be necessary to charter a freight car or a Pullman sleeper for the boys who win the premium trip.

Mrs. Van Tyle dead.
